

Activities of GSU-SGC, Tadong 2021

The Gender Sensitization Unit, NBBGC, Tadong, organized an online program on gender equality for its students on 14th July 2021 through online mode as the Covid lockdown continues.

The Resource Person of the Program was Dr. Sandhya Rai from Loyola College Namchi. She highlighted the need to bring awareness among the students about the basic concepts of gender stereotypes, ending violence against girls and women, and implementing the POCSO Act. The program aimed to achieve gender justice and equity through a critically informed understanding of gender identities and dynamics through academic programs, research, and other related activities in Gender and Development Studies and Women's and Gender studies. A total of Seventy-six (76) - 2nd Semester humanities students attended the program.

The students posed many queries that made the session very interactive, exciting, and lively to drive home the program's message. This kind of participation was something exceptional to observe in a virtual session. As a result, the program had a profound impact on the curious students. Overall, the session successfully implanted basic knowledge in the students' needs to protect themselves or others from violence and harassment at the workplace.

The Program Convenor mulled over the chapters of the Policy orientations and measures that the GSU has undertaken for needful action as it approaches the 8th year of the Policies implementation. Finally, the program concluded with a vote of thanks.

The GSU-NBBG College, Tadong, has not received any complaints on gender issues from students and employees of the campus during 2021.
